

Organizational Assessment

Primary Purpose:

To evaluate staff perception of how the organization embodies the 6 trauma-informed system principles.

Activity Overview:

Tools for a Trauma-informed Worklife (TTIW) is an assessment tool /Self-Study Survey – that asks program staff about the extent to which their workplace embodies the 6 TIS principles.

Objectives:

The TTIW is an electronic survey which measures the internal components of being a trauma-informed workforce. The TTIW can establish a baseline for measuring the change or impact of TIS implementation and inform and guide priority focus areas throughout a TIS implementation.

Once the areas of success and opportunities for growth are identified the end report aids in supporting the work of departments implementing and supporting trauma-informed practices

Includes the following components:

- Initial summary report and findings
- Two post-data reflection workshops and recommendation for use with the Trauma Informed Leadership Team or other leadership teams
